

African Fiber Optic Cable Splicing Manufacturer Inquiry

Article Overview

YOA Cables is Africa's largest optical fibre cable manufacturer, while Decko, TransAfrican Fibre Services, FIBER AFRICA, and de Bruyn's Splicing provide comprehensive splicing and network services across the continent.

Key Manufacturers and Service Providers

1. YOA Cables YOA Cables is recognized as Africa's largest optical fibre cable manufacturer, offering advanced products and innovations such as Fast Fusion Technology (FFT), which improves handling during installation and reduces accidental damage . They focus on delivering high-speed, flexible optical fibre solutions tailored for the African market and provide support for both manufacturing and installation needs. 2. Decko Decko provides end-to-end fiber optic solutions, including fusion splicing, testing, and network maintenance. They handle FTTx deployments (FTTH, FTTB, FTTD), civil works, site acquisition, and passive infrastructure. Decko also offers 24/7 emergency restoration and in-service “hot cuts” for telecom and CATV networks . 3. TransAfrican Fibre Services This company specializes in fiber optic splicing, testing, and network implementation across South Africa and the African continent. They provide advanced fibre characterisation, including OTDR testing, chromatic dispersion, and polarization mode dispersion, ensuring networks can support high data rates (10Gb/s, 40Gb/s) and DWDM/CWDM systems . 4. FIBER AFRICA FIBER AFRICA offers full network build and maintenance, including civil works, duct installation, splicing, testing, and as-built documentation. They have long-term contracts with major networks like DFA, Vumatel, Telkom, Vodacom, and Octotel, e...
