

Barbados butterfly optical cable manufacturer

Article Overview

While Barbados does not appear to have a dedicated manufacturer of butterfly optical cables, local companies provide fiber optic services, and international suppliers can deliver butterfly cables to the island.

Local Fiber Optic Service Providers

TELiCON Group has been instrumental in deploying fiber optic networks in Barbados, including the first 100% fiber-to-the-home (FTTH) project with Flow Barbados. They handle fiber construction, installation, splicing, and activation, covering both residential and commercial networks across the island. TELiCON also provides training and maintenance services, making them a key partner for any fiber optic project in Barbados. Additionally, Barbados has a small number of verified cabling and fiber optics companies, including businesses located at Websters Industrial Park, Wildey, Saint Michael and 94 Midsummer Dr., Husbands Terrace, Saint James. These companies may offer installation, splicing, and network integration services, though they may not manufacture butterfly cables locally.

Butterfly Optical Cable Suppliers

FTTH Butterfly Optical Cables are specialized cables used for interconnecting jumpers, patch cords, or pigtails, often in FTTH deployments. These cables are typically supplied by international manufacturers rather than produced locally. Companies like OMC Cable provide custom fiber optic solutions, including indoor an...
