

How much does it cost to customize Norwegian cable tray models

Article Overview

Yes, Norwegian cable tray prices can be customized based on material, dimensions, design complexity, and project-specific requirements.

Customization Options

Norwegian cable trays are available in a variety of materials including stainless steel, galvanized steel, aluminum, and fibreglass composites, which influence both performance and cost . They can also be produced in different heights, widths, and slot patterns to accommodate specific cable loads and installation requirements . Specialized accessories, brackets, and fittings further allow for tailored solutions for complex or compact installations .

Pricing Factors

Pricing is heavily influenced by customization. Standard trays have a base price, but custom-engineered solutions—such as stainless steel trays for corrosive offshore environments or wire trays bent to fit unique layouts—carry higher costs due to additional fabrication, coatings, and certifications . Project scale also affects pricing: large turnkey projects may benefit from negotiated volume discounts, while smaller orders may follow standard list prices .
