

Price of paint touch-up for photovoltaic distribution boxes

Article Overview

Touch-up paint for photovoltaic distribution boxes typically ranges from $10 to $60 for materials, with professional labor adding $50 to $100 per hour, depending on paint type and application complexity.

Enclosure Paint Costs

For standard electrical enclosures, touch-up paint is used to repair scuffs, chips, or exposed metal after modifications, helping prevent corrosion and maintain appearance . Materials are available in aerosol spray cans or paint pens, suitable for both large surface areas and precise touch-ups. Typical DIY material costs range from $10 to $30, while high-quality paints may cost $30 to $60 per gallon . Hiring a professional can add $50 to $100 per hour depending on the complexity and size of the repair .

Photovoltaic (Solar) Paint Costs

If the distribution box uses photovoltaic paint to integrate energy generation, costs are significantly higher. Material prices for solar PV paint range from $100 to $500 per square meter, with installation potentially adding $200 per square meter or more, especially if professional application is required . The price depends on the type of solar paint (e.g., quantum dot, perovskite, or hydrogen-extracting), surface preparation, and durability requirements
