

RSAP Distribution Box

Article Overview

In the context of UK housing, RSAP refers to the Rough Sleeping Accommodation Programme, which provides housing and support for people experiencing or at risk of rough sleeping.

The term "RSAP distribution box" is not officially defined in the available guidance, but it may informally refer to the system or framework used to allocate RSAP-funded properties and support services. RSAP is a government initiative led by the Department for Levelling Up, Housing and Communities (DLUHC) to deliver long-term homes and intensive support for rough sleepers .

Key Features of RSAP

- Housing Provision: RSAP provides capital funding to acquire or refurbish properties, which are then leased to registered providers or housing associations . These homes are dispersed across local authorities to meet regional needs.
- Support Services: Each property is paired with a dedicated RSAP worker who provides person-centred, trauma-informed support, typically at a ratio of 1 worker per 10-12 residents .
- Program Management: Local councils submit proposals and bids for RSAP funding, detailing the number of homes, support services, and strategic fit. This ensures that properties and support are distributed effectively across regions .
- Monitoring and Allocation: RSAP units are tracked in a central database, often managed by a clearing house, to ensure proper allocation, reporting, and ongoing support for residents . In practice, a "distribution box" in this context could metaphorically describe the mechanism by which RSAP homes and support services...
