

Tax Classification of Stainless Steel Cable Trays

Article Overview

Stainless steel cable trays are classified under HSN Code 73089090 and attract an 18% GST rate in India.

HSN Code Classification

Stainless steel cable trays are considered structural support components for electrical cables rather than electrical machines themselves. They fall under Chapter 73: Articles of iron or steel, specifically under HSN Code 7308, which covers “Structures and parts of structures of iron or steel.” Within this chapter, the subheading 73089090 is used for “Other structures and parts of structures of iron or steel,” making it the most widely accepted classification for stainless steel cable trays in India .

Material and Functional Considerations

The classification depends on both the material and primary function of the tray:

- Material: Stainless steel, galvanized steel, or aluminum. Stainless steel trays are included under the iron/steel category. Aluminum trays would fall under Chapter 76, and FRP trays under Chapter 39 .
- Function: Cable trays serve as support structures for routing and organizing electrical cables in commercial, industrial, and residential installations. They do not carry current themselves, which distinguishes them from electrical apparatus ....
