

Tunnel Cable Tray Installation Price List

Article Overview

Cable tray installation in tunnels typically ranges from $50 to $200 per linear foot, depending on materials, complexity, and tunnel conditions.

Cost Factors

- Material Type
 - Steel (galvanized or stainless): Common for durability and fire resistance; higher cost for stainless steel.
 - Aluminum: Lightweight and corrosion-resistant, moderately priced.
 - GRP/FRP (Glass Reinforced Polyester): Used in tunnels for corrosion resistance and fire safety, often more expensive than metal trays .
- Installation Complexity
 - Tunnels often require anchoring trays to walls or ceilings, navigating curves, slopes, and multi-layer routing .
 - Fire-rated or ventilated trays may require additional labor and accessories, increasing costs .
- Labor and Accessibility
 - Labor costs are higher in confined tunnel spaces due to safety requirements, scaffolding, and limited access.
 - Projects in urban or underground transit tunnels may require specialized crews and compliance with NFPA 130/502 standards .
- Additional Components
 - Brackets, clamps, supports, and firestop modules add to the total cost
