

Wholesale of photovoltaic cable trays in the Middle East

Article Overview

Photovoltaic cable trays in the Middle East can be procured from specialized suppliers like West Port Middle East, JSM Energy, and OBO Bettermann, with options for government and private tenders across the region.

Key Suppliers and Products

West Port Middle East offers a wide range of cable management solutions tailored for renewable energy projects, including solar PV plants. Their offerings include hot-dip galvanized ladder trays, GI slotted channels, wire mesh trays, and cable trunking systems, designed to withstand harsh desert conditions, UV exposure, humidity, and high wind loads. These systems are suitable for both ground-mounted solar arrays and rooftop installations, ensuring durability and compliance with regional standards. JSM Energy Middle East provides cable management systems along with earthing, lightning protection, and safety isolators, serving as a distributor and solutions provider for renewable energy infrastructure. Their products support efficient installation and long-term reliability in solar projects. OBO Bettermann specializes in cable routing for PV systems, offering mesh and ladder cable trays, mounting adapters, and EMC-tested cable support systems to protect against electromagnetic interference and mechanical stress. Their solutions are particularly useful for rooftop PV installations and inverter room cabling.
